Inquest jury out 6 hrs., brings in three recommendations

MINDEN — An inquest into the multiple-death car crash north of Carnarvon on the evening of November 14, 1980, is now over, after the jury took six hours of deliberation, going over the evidence given at the three day hearings. When they returned they had three recommendations to render. First, they recommended that the public be made aware of the potential danger of combining bias and radial tires through publicity by media advertising; second, they recommended that volunteer firemen and ambulance personnel be encouraged to update in emergency training in order to maintain their high standard of efficiency and thirdly, that doctors and nurses required to work in an emergency room of a hospital and be given continuous updating in emergency procedures.

On the night of Friday, November 14th after attending a party at a private home north of Carnarvon, where alcoholic beverages had been consumed, a Chevrolet car driven by the late Jeffrey Hutchings with radial tires on the front and bias tires on the rear, left the residence travelling south on Highway 35. In the car with Hutchings were Penny Pripp and Rodney Gorveatt, passengers in the front seat, while Joe Dollo Jr. and Wendy Schell were passengers in the back seat.

After travelling south for a considerable distance the vehicle left the travelled portion of the highway to the west and travelled a distance of 235 feet along the shoulder in a sideways skid. It then entered onto the travelled portion of the road skidding 429 feet across the south lane into the northbound lane where it impacted a northbound vehicle driven by the late Donald Clair Faulkner with Barbara Faulkner as his passenger. The Faulkner vehicle was enroute from Peterborough to Golden Valley.

As a result of the above accident which took place at 11:02 p.m., 1.4 miles north of the Beech River bridge in Stanhope Township, the following persons lost their lives: Jeffrey Hutchings, Rodney Gorveatt, Penny Pripp, Wendy Schell and Donald and Barbara Faulkner.

However at the time, Donald Faulkner and Joe Dollo Jr. were severely injured and were transported by ambulance to Minden Hospital where emergency treatment was received. They were then transported to Peterborough by ambulance. Donald Faulkner was pronounced dead upon arrival. Joe Dollo Jr. has since recovered from his multiple injuries. This information was taken from the official inquest report released Friday, Feb. 13th, 1981.

Warden's Message

Residents of Haliburton County are fortunate that the Big Brothers organization of Ontario and Canada is going to play an active part as a service in our County.

Most of us know the important role Big Brothers can play, and are anxious to see that role carried out.

It was encouraging to see the participants at all levels during the recent "Bowl for Millions" held at Carnarvon Lanes last Saturday.

On behalf of the Office of Warden, I wish everyone associated with this worthwhile project every success.

Murray Fearrey, Warden
Provisional County of Haliburton

22 lb. lunker from Boshkung

CARNARVON — Richard Harrison went ice fishing last Saturday afternoon on Boshkung Lake and shortly after arriving at his fish hut he hooked onto this beautiful lunker lake trout. The fish weighed in at 22 lbs, was 36 inches long and had a girth of 22 inches. Mr. Harrison used a Williams lure as bait and is the largest fish he's ever landed. He hopes to have the trout mounted and it will hang in the Minden liquor store where he worked for many years until his recent retirement.

EDITORIALLY SPEAKING

Trudeau's dream: Canada's nightmare

So the government of Canada has purchased the oil company, Petrofina Canada Inc.

Trudeau, Lalonde and company are pursuing, with the Canadian taxpayers money, their personal dream of nationalizing oil companies.

Petrofina will cost $1.46 billion. And it will mean that the old Fina service stations in Eastern Canada will become Petrocan stations.

But will it give Canadians one drop more oil, or one more iota of energy?

No.

Will it cut the cost of gasoline and home heating oil?

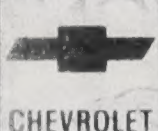

No. In fact, it will increase cost. Gas and oil will not be one cent cheaper at Petrocan stations. And a sizeable tax will be added to all gas and home heating oil purchases in order to help Lalonde and Trudeau raise the money to buy Fina.

Even at market value terms, the Petrofina purchase was questionable. The founder of the Canadian company can't understand why Canada would pay $120 a share, which is far above market value.

And so, the government carelessly throws away our money to pursue their new dream.

And at the same time, the fond dream of Canada past self-sufficiency as energy, becomes a nightmare.

Anson, Hindon and Minden Council Minutes

MINDEN — The 6th meeting of council took place on Wednesday, Feb. 11 with the following municipal business being conducted.

CEMENT BLOCK BUILDING: Don Blakey, Jim Garbutt and Jerry Pillsworth, were present in regard to the ownership of the cement block building situated beside the old curling building on Bobcaygeon road.

Everyone agreed that the municipality owned it, but the two respective groups were to negotiate on a suitable value. The municipality would act as an intermediary in the transfer of funds.

As for the operation of the new curling facility J. O. Jackson along with Garbutt and Blakey, and with several members of the recreation committee were present. The club advised that their building would not be available to rent for possibly one year as a great deal of interior finishing was yet to be completed. However, their rental figure would be higher than the arena rates and should not be defined as being in competition with the arena facilities. It was decided that a rental policy be prepared and approved by both parties for future reference.

LIASON MEMBERS: Council appointed the following councillors as liason members to the curling club executive for 1981, deputy reeve Doug Pritchard and Larry Cummins.

PURCHASE 2,000 GALLON TANK: Earl Kent, Roads Superintendent for AHM, was directed to buy a used 2,000 gallon tank from J. Rowlands for the sum of $300.

COUNCIL ACCEPTS TENDER: Only one tender was received for the 1963 GMC fire truck and that was from the Township of Faraday. Council accepted the tender of $1610.

A Break for Small Firms

By W. Roger Worth

Finally, most provincial governments have recognized that small businesses are decidedly different than the powerful national and multi-national companies that sometimes control the marketplace.

The evidence: during the last few years nine of Canada's ten provinces have adopted proposals to provide a lower corporate tax rate for smaller firms.

While there are a variety of reasons for the increased support for independents, it

Roger Worth is Director,
Public Affairs,
Canadian Federation of Independent Business.

appears most provincial governments now recognize that smaller firms are creating a majority of the country's new jobs.

While big companies are laying off employees and closing down plants, smaller firms are picking up at least part of the slack.

Quebec and Nova Scotia joined the trend to lower corporate tax rates for smaller firms last year, and Prince Edward Island is now the only holdout.

While the corporate tax rate is only minimally lower in most provinces (9% for smaller businesses vs a general corporate rate of 12% in New Brunswick, for example), the national trend is significant.

Brien Gray, Director of Provincial Affairs for the 57,000-member Canadian Federation of Independent Business says the attitudes of politicians and bureaucrats toward small business have changed dramatically over the last few years.

"They're really starting to understand that smaller firms are the real job creators in Canada," he believes.

"We've been battling for a better deal for small business for years," Gray emphasizes. "Finally we're seeing some real results."

The Big 'I Ams'

Politicians, Politicians
Keeping up with old traditions;
Graduating smartass boys
Making out with lots o noise.

Bring the Constitution back
(shove it in a outhouse shack)
These many years provincial greed
Has stymied this - a doubtful need.

Do we have a country here?
IS unity just something queer?
Or do we have a bunch of hams
Pretending they're the big "I ams?"

I think it's time these grownup boys
Get down to work without the noise.
Let's think in terms of what is best
For all of us - both East and West.

A Constitution that is right
Might tend to finally unite
The troubles concepts of this land -

This Canada, our home, our love.

$42 Million Loan Program to Boost Rental Starts

A $42 million provincial no-interest loan program to stimulate private rental construction in areas of low vacancy rates was announced by Ontario Housing Minister Claude Bennett.

The Ontario Rental Construction Loan (ORCL) program, which takes effect immediately, will provide an interest-free loan of $4,200 per unit towards the construction of rental housing within specified price limits.

"We are optimistic that this program will result in as many as 10,000 rental housing starts this year," Bennett said.

"In addition to relieving the growing shortage of rental housing accommodation, this program has the potential for generating 35,000 man-years of employment in the construction and related industries," he added.

"Further, where there is a definite local need shown, we will expect that specially-designed units for the handicapped are included in the plans," he said.

Builders will also be required to offer up to 15 per cent of the units in any complex to the local housing authority responsible for managing assisted housing in the community. If there is a need for rent-geared-to-income housing, these units would be allocated to eligible low-income families, senior citizens and individuals who require rental assistance.

"To ensure that the new rental accommodation is available to those who need it most, the program will not be extended to 'adult only' buildings nor, obviously, to what could be classed as 'luxury' accommodations," said Bennett.

"The loans will be an incentive to get rental projects off the ground, in low-vacancy areas such as Metro Toronto, Hamilton, Kitchener, Sudbury and Thunder Bay," said Bennett. "The assistance will also be available in smaller and rural communities where a need exists for rental housing.

"We have consulted with representatives of the construction industry, lending institutions and the mortgage insurance business during the development of the program and have been gratified by their positive responses," Bennett said.

The program, to be administered by Ontario Mortgage Corporation, will operate with a minimum of red tape. "We are limiting our regulations in order to allow the private sector the greatest possible flexibility to ensure the units consumers require will be built as quickly as possible.

"We are providing the interest-free loans. It will be up to the developers, the lenders and the mortgage insurance people to see how these funds can best assist developers to come in at market rents," he said.

New construction projects must contain at least six units to be considered for the program. In order to qualify for loans, units must fall within maximum prices established by Canada Mortgage and Housing for non-profit housing last October.

For Metro Toronto, Mississauga and northern Ontario, north of the French River, the maximum unit prices are as follows: one-bedroom, $44,500; two-bedroom, $48,500; three or more bedrooms, $53,000. For the remaining areas of the province, the maximum prices are $40,000, $44,000 and $47,500 respectively.

The loans will also be made when existing non-residential properties such as schools or commercial buildings are being converted to private rental accommodation.

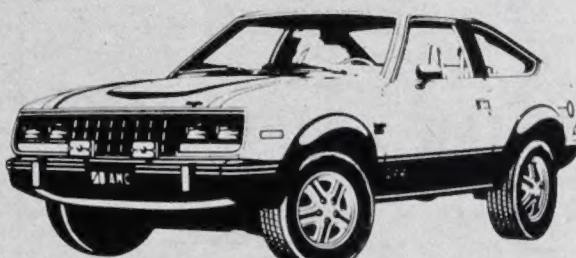

"We are committed to encouraging the better use of existing properties, and in some downtown areas, there is great potential for this type of conversion," Bennett said.

The program will not apply to condominium projects, non-profit, or co-operative housing developments.

Eakins questions Tories ability to spend before election

When election time rolls around the provincial government can find $1½ billion dollars to initiate and support projects which they couldn't find before Eakins said.

Mr. Eakins, MPP Victoria-Haliburton spoke to a crowd of about 120 people last week at the Moose Hall in Lindsay as local Liberals gathered together for a social evening.

The V-H Liberal Association is holding its nomination meeting tonight at 8:00 pm. at the Legion Hall in Lindsay. Guest speaker will be caucus critic on energy, Mr. Julian Reid, MPP for Halton-Burlington. Mr. Reid is a graduate of the Ontario Agricultural College, a professional actor and an expert on alternate energy.

In speaking to the group Eakins said the unemployment rate in Haliburton is high and we have to fight for them to get their fair share. He added that large companies like pulp and paper mills can get money from the government but small businesses are failing to survive.

Haliburton is being disadvantaged by this government when residents of northern Ontario can get a car license for only $10. Why is Haliburton not included?

Mr. Eakins said he has been extremely busy of late as the official opposition critic and serving on three committees.
